November

Dear SCORAL

We hope that all of our eastern-U.S. SCORAlers have weathered "Superstorm Sandy" safely. This month's update contains new publications that we hope you will take a moment to explore. Among them is an exciting edition of the Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science focused on the politics of consumption. Also featured are materials from past conferences, including SCORAl's first trans-Atlantic workshop and the Consensus International Conference.

Enjoy!

Kate & Debbie & Maurie

SCORAl's first Trans-Atlantic Workshop

The proceedings of SCORAl's first Trans-Atlantic workshop held in Bregenz, Austria on May 1, 2012, are available for download here. Due to enthusiastic responses and commitment generated at this workshop, SCORAl Europe was founded the very next day.

The proceedings feature 12 papers addressing the theme of "Sustainable Consumption During Times of Crisis" from a diversity of perspectives, backed by inspiring research and argumentation. Forty five researchers and practitioners contributed to lively workshop discussions, reports of which are also included.

The next workshop by SCORAI Europe will be held in Istanbul on June 4, 2013, kindly hosted by the ERSCP-EMSU conference organisers. More information and a call for papers will follow soon.

Revisiting the Politics of Consumption

The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science has published a special issue this November focused on consumption: Communication, Consumers, and Citizens: Revisiting the Politics of Consumption edited by: Dhavan V. Shah, Lewis A. Friedland, Chris Wells, Young Mie Kim and Hernando Rojas. The Table of Contents is below.

Situating Consumption in Politics

- W. Lance Bennett "The Personalization of Politics: Political Identity, Social Media, and Changing Patterns of Participation"
- Louis Hyman "The Politics of Consumer Debt: U.S. State Policy and the Rise of Investment in Consumer Credit, 1920-2008"
- Erika L. Paulson and Thomas C. O'Guinn "Working-Class Cast: Images of the Working Class in Advertising, 1950-2010"
- Kjerstin Thorson "What Does It Mean to Be a Good Citizen? Citizenship Vocabularies as Resources for Action"

Sustainable Citizenship and Social Capital

- Michele Micheletti and Dietlind Stolle "Sustainable Citizenship and the New Politics of Consumption"
- Paolo R. Graziano and Francesca Forno "Political Consumerism and New Forms of Political Participation: the Gruppi di Acquisto Solidale in Italy"
- Nam-Jin Lee, Christine L. Garlough, Lewis A. Friedland, and Dhavan V. Shah "Gender and Generation in the Social Positioning of Taste"
- Young Mie Kim "The Shifting Sands of Citizenship: Toward a Model of the Citizenry in Life Politics"

Conscious Consumption and Activism

- Margaret M. Willis and Juliet B. Schor "Does Changing a Light Bulb Lead to Changing the World? Political Action and the Conscious Consumer"
- Lucy Atkinson "Buying In to Social Change: How Private Consumption Choices Engender Concern for the Collective"
- Melissa R. Gotlieb and Chris Wells "From Concerned Shopper to Dutiful Citizen: Implications of Individual and Collective Orientations toward Political Consumerism"
- D. Jasun Carr, Melissa R. Gotlieb, Nam-Jin Lee, and Dhavan V. Shah "Examining Overconsumption, Competitive Consumption, and Conscious Consumption from 1994 to 2004: Disentangling Cohort and Period Effects

Questioning Assumptions about the Citizen-Consumer

- Ming Wang, Itay Gabay, and Dhavan V. Shah "The Civic Consequences of "Going Negative": Attack Ads and Adolescents' Knowledge, Consumption, and Participation"
- Thomas Hove "Between Complacency and Paternalism: Ethical Controversies over Influencing Political and Consumer Choice"
- Lewis A. Friedland, Hernando Rojas, and Leticia Bode "Consuming Ourselves to Dearth: Escalating Inequality and Public Opinion"

Might Growth Be Ending?

A surprising question for the Financial Times to be asking, but last month an article by Martin Wolf, Is unlimited growth a thing of the past?, examined that very question in its review of Professor Robert Gordon's work, Is U.S. Economic Growth Over? Faltering Innovation Confronts the Six Headwinds.

The article takes a skeptical look a the utility of recent innovations and concludes, "For almost two centuries, today's high-income countries enjoyed waves of innovation that made them both far more prosperous than before and far more powerful than everybody else. This was the world of the American dream and American exceptionalism. Now innovation is slow and economic catch-up fast. The elites of the high-income countries quite like this new world. The rest of their population like it vastly less. Get used to this. It will not change." The full article is available here.

Climate Mind and Behavior Symposium

The Garrison Institute's Climate Mind and Behavior Initiative invites you to submit an abstract, oral presentation proposal or poster presentation proposal for the 4th annual Climate, Mind and Behavior Symposium. Presentations should feature new research or innovative thinking concerning the human dimensions of energy, climate, or sustainability practices. This year's symposium will be organized around the theme of: The Importance of Variation and Diversity in Sustainability and Climate Work.

The Symposium is a small, interdisciplinary forum of researchers focused on developing a scientifically-rooted understanding of the social, behavioral, and cognitive determinants of sustainability practices, policies, and decision-making. Presentation proposals can include quantitative and qualitative research and can be rooted in theory-driven or practice-driven approaches to understanding. Proposals will be evaluated based on their ability to lend innovative ideas and insights concerning: current patterns of behaviors and their causes, strategies for shifting current practices, and mechanisms for creating a larger cultural transition toward a more sustainable society. Submission Deadline: January 21, 2013. The full Call for Abstract and submission information can be viewed here.
